Collins head quits

By Lisa A. Boudreau

Bruce Coppock, the man chosen to run the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, resigned Friday, June 29, just days before he was to start officially.

Mr. Coppock, 38, of Weston, was chosen from a field of 18 candidates last April by the Andover Endowment for the Arts, the group that oversees the center for the town. He was to begin Monday, July 2.

Mr. Coppock said after doing some part-time consulting work for the Collins Center during the last two months, he decided the full-time position was not for him.

"It wasn't quite the marriage that we (he and the AEA) thought it would be," Mr. Coppock said Monday.

"Let's just say there was a slight difference of opinion about direction," he (Continued on page 25)

Andover man has a part in 'Dick Tracy'

By Lisa A. Boudreau

Ned Claffin isn't an actor, but that didn't keep him from playing a role in one of the summer's hit movies, "Dick Tracy."

Mr. Claffin, 40, of 6 Stevens Circle, is a song writer by profession. He became involved in the movie through writing lyrics for its soundtrack. He never imagined he would end up on the silver screen playing a reporter, or that his voice would be used to simulate a radio broadcast used in the movie.

Warren Beatty, the film's star and its director, was so impressed with the work Mr. Claffin did on the soundtrack and the energy the songwriter put into the project he created a role just for him. The reporter Mr. Claffin played and the voice-over of a mock radio news broadcast was inspired by parts of the song, "Dick Tracy," that he contributed to.

Mr. Beatty called to congratulate him on the songs and talk about going to Hollywood to be in the film.

By Don Staruk

The Penguin Park tot lot will be moved from Iceland Road to a new home on the upper Shawsheen soccer fields on Burnham Road, despite statements by its soon-to-be neighbors that off-street parking at the site is inadequate.

The Board of Selectmen voted unanimously Monday night to move the new playground equipment to upper Shawsheen as soon as possible.

Penguin Park is the new children's playground at the corner of Lowell Street and Iceland Road. Volunteers, in cooperation with town officials, raised approximately $40,000 to purchase the new swings and other playground equipment, then spent a weekend in May installing it.

A lack of parking at the site, and its location on Lowell Street, a busy section of Route 133, has created a dangerous tra-

Genetics Institute plans to construct a 1.4 million square-foot product development and manufacturing complex on Burt Road over the next 10 to 15 years, according to Stephen Colyer, the town planning director.

Recycling to be mandatory

Recycling in Andover will be mandatory when the town's new curbside collection program begins the first week in August. But the town will try to educate residents about its benefits rather than punish them for noncompliance.

Mostly out-of-towners enjoy Andover's garden plots

By Lisa A. Boudreau

Andover has its own slice of "Green Acres" in the western part of town. For $5 people can rent a 25-foot by 25-foot piece of land and plant a garden. The community gardens are located on conservation land accessible off High Plain Road.

However, very few Andoverites have taken the opportunity to grow their own produce. Only eight of the 107 plots rented this year are taken by Andover residents. The other 99 are rented by Lawrence residents through the town and the Greater Lawrence Ecumenical Council, according to the Conservation Commission.

Correction

There was a mistake in the guest column that ran on page 38 in last week's Townsman. ("Looking at town history on this July 4.") It should have said that Punchard High School became East Junior High and then the Doherty Middle School.

An article in last week's Townsman ("Andoverites vie for political spots," page one) incorrectly listed the age of Donal Coleman. He is 36.

Of the eight plots rented by Andover residents, three plots are shared by two people, two more plots are shared by two people and two plots have been rented by different individuals, but not planted.

There are approximately 50 plots still available to rent, said Jim Greer, a town conservation agent. Water is stored on the land and is available for irrigation, he said.

Garden rentals began about 12 years ago, according to Mr. Greer.

Dances are for elders

The Andover Council on Aging will hold monthly evening dances at the Senior Center the following evenings: Saturday, Sept. 8, Friday, Oct. 19, and Saturday, Nov. 10.

The dances will be held from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Dancing will be to the music of Chet Harnden.

Until three years ago the town rented land off Brundrett Avenue. The gardens were moved to the High Plain Road site because use began to exceed capacity.

The Brundrett land cost gardeners $15 for each plot.

The price included the use of the land and tilling fees. The price and tilling remained the same when the location was moved to High Plain Road.

The rental fee dropped to $5 this year because the town no longer tills (Continued on page 11)

NEWS IN BRIEF

Towns operate recycling days

The towns of Andover and North Andover will operate a waste motor oil recycling facility Wednesday, July 11, from 4 to 7 p.m. and Saturday, July 14, from 9 a.m. until noon.

The tank is located in North Andover, behind the fire station at 124 Main St. Up to 10 gallons of used motor oil may be dumped. There is a dumping charge of 50 cents per gallon.

The recycling facility is open the second Wednesday and second Saturday every month. August collection dates are Aug. 8 and 11.

For further information, call the Andover Health Department at 470-3800, extension 255.

Group studies downtown

By Don Staruk

Turning the former Elm Street gas station lot next to the Andover Spa into a parking lot and creating off-site parking for employees and store owners, possibly on Red Spring Road, are two recommendations the Central Business District subcommittee discussed at its meeting last Friday. The subcommittee is trying to alleviate parking problems downtown.

The CBD subcommittee was formed by the Planning Board in March to look at what actions the town could take to keep businesses from moving out of the downtown after the announced closing of Barcelos grocery store on Main Street. High rents and limited parking have been identified as deterrents to business downtown.

The recommendation on the Elm Street gas station might be to lease the property and spend $11,000 to raze the building and pave the property. The $11,000 estimate does not include installation of parking meters or the lease.

The site is listed with the Department of Environmental Protection as a hazardous waste site because of oil and gasoline that spilled from underground tanks while it was a service station. The tanks have been removed but contaminated dirt remains. Who is going to pay for the cleanup is still in question.

The idea of satellite parking for employees, with the goal of freeing up spaces downtown for customers, has been discussed before, but has never been tried.

Kenneth Seifert, superintendent of schools, in 1986 agreed to allow use of the parking lot for the football fields on Red Spring Road for a satellite lot. A shuttle service would

Members of Andover Recycling Inc., the volunteer group organizing recycling efforts in Andover for the past 20 years, were on hand Monday for the signing of town's first recycling contract. Examining the new collection truck and an 18-gallon recycling bin, which all residents will be given, are, from left, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, Selectman Gerald Silverman, Florence Feldman-Wood, (front) Janice Simari, (back) Carol Rougve, (front) Jeannette Barron, (back in v-neck) Cindy Richmond, (front, holding bin) Joyce Ringleb, Virginia Cole (in truck) and Kevin Walton, general manager of Waste Management, the contractor. run from the lot at no cost to riders and possibly would be paid for by the town and merchants.

Harry Smith, town planner, will get more details on the costs involved with that option and hopes to have some information ready for the next CBD meeting tomorrow morning, July 6.

Hooks Johnston, Planning Board member and subcommittee chairman, also asked Lee Russem, the new chairman of the Andover Center Association, to arrange a time for him to make a presentation of the proposal to association members.

Mr. Russem predicted that the idea of satellite parking will be a "tough sell."

Approximately 400 employees work downtown, according to Bob Henderson, president of Andover Bank and an active contributor to the subcommittee.

Mr. Johnston questioned whether businesses downtown would be willing to contribute to the cost of satellite parking.

"I think the larger ones will," Mr. Henderson said. "I think the smaller ones will see it as an additional tax."

The group also will recommend changing the two-hour parking on at least one side of Florence Street to all-day parking in hopes that employees will park there instead of in the metered lots closer to Main Street.

The subcommittee may recommend changing both sides of Florence Street to all-day parking, but a resident of the street doesn't think that's a good idea.

Tammy Green, of 13 Florence St., said there is not enough room for two cars to get through Florence Street when cars are parked on both sides, and traffic backs up into Elm Street.

"Two-side parking there seems to create a problem," Ms. Green said.

The committee also requested that Mr. Smith look into whether the old post office parking lot, which has spaces for about 20 cars, could be available for lease to businesses for their employees.

Recycling continues

Paper pickup at curbside continues in Andover during this week and the week beginning Monday, July 16.

Residents should place their paper at curbside by 7 a.m. on the day when their trash is collected.

Also continuing is recycling of plastic and glass. Bring those items to the West Middle School parking lot on Saturdays, July 7 and 21.

RECYCLING

By Virginia Cole

As our recycling program changes and improves, we can take a minute to look at what is going on out in the rest of the world. The big thing now is money-making companies, large and small, are getting into our act. No longer are the little old ladies in sneakers the only ones interested. We have proven our point about saving the environment or maybe we haven't at all. Maybe it is just that there is money to be made and the look of the future is upon us. No matter. We will take success however it comes.

Turumax Corp. is another company besides Plastics Again, making lumber products from mixed plastics. This product will not rot, is termite proof and can be assembled with regular tools.

Dade County, Florida, has a plant that will recycle 600 million steel cans in 1990. They also recover aluminum. We need a branch of Montenay Company near here.

Spic-N-Span won the DuPont plastics food packaging innovation environmental award. This award was for the first 100 percent recycled commercial bottle. Trio Products has made a 100 percent recycled and recyclable egg carton. Ask for these in your grocery.

Union Carbide will build and operate a full scale, multi-plastics recycling facility in New Jersey. Eventually they expect to take plastics from 500 miles away.

And our own Waste Management Inc. will build with DuPont a plastics recycling facility in Chicago.

Not to forget waste paper. Waste Management Inc. will process and market recycled paper. This is a St. Louis company that will take corrugated, newsprint and other paper and market the product to other mills.

In Georgia, M.A. Industries deals in plastics. The company makes plastic manhole ladders from auto battery cases after breaking the battery into pieces and recovering the lead. They also make video cassette boxes, traction mats, plastic cylinder bottles and even a baseball cube. They had a client who wanted the clear plastic cubes to store baseballs in so he could look at them.

Back to Andover. Paper pickup continues the weeks of July 2 and 16. Plastic and glass recovery days will be July 7 and 16 at the West Middle School parking lot. Plastics that can be recycled in Andover are Styrofoam trays and cups; PET plastic soda and liquor bottles (firm, often clear plastic); HDPE plastic, household detergents, shampoos etc.; and milk, water and orange juice containers, cleaned and flattened.

Raytheon is helping air travel become even safer. That's good news for Massachusetts, too.

More people fly, and fly more frequently, every year. They like the safety, speed, and convenience of today's air travel.

Raytheon has been helping air safety keep pace with air traffic for over 30 years by producing radar systems and displays that help guide aircraft from takeoff to landing.

Now we're involved in three new programs for the Federal Aviation Administration—programs that call for us to provide the FAA with more than one billion dollars' worth of systems and services. Most of the work will be done right here in Massachusetts.

In Waltham, Raytheon has already started producing Terminal Doppler Weather Radars for installation at major commercial airports. Designed at our facilities in Wayland and Sudbury, these special radars will help make takeoffs and landings safer because they can detect and measure sharp wind shifts. Pilots will be warned in time to avoid these hazardous weather conditions.

We're also helping to update the nation's air traffic control system with state-of-the-art electronics. We'll deliver more than 6,900 display consoles for use in enroute centers, airport terminal approach facilities, and airport towers.

Raytheon Service Company, headquartered in Burlington, will provide technical support services to the entire modernization program.

James Wieler, Raytheon meteorologist in Sudbury, with a prototype of a Doppler Weather Radar display.

Put these important developments together and it spells good news for the flying public. It also happens to be excellent news for the Bay State's economy.

Sugarman wins award

An Andover-based businesswoman was one of the top award winners at a recent celebrity fund-raiser in Boston.

Karen Sugarman, owner of Karen Sugarman Interiors on North Main Street, took home the award for "Best Interpretation of Gala Theme" from the March of Dimes Celebrity Gourmet Gala at the Marriott Copley Place Hotel. Ms. Sugarman didn't win the award for her culinary skills. She won it for doing what she does best: creating interior environments.

More than 500 people attended the annual event, the charity's largest fund-raiser of the year. For the price of a ticket, gala goers got a feast for the eyes as well as the palate as celebrity "chefs" like Mario Buatta, Morgan Brittany, Jack Williams and Bob Lobel cooked their favorite dishes against professionally designed backdrops. This year's theme was "The World of Romance."

Ms. Sugarman and her assistants, Mary Jane Dennehy of Andover and Angelica Rossi of Manchester, designed a romantic music room with the elegance of old-world Europe. A gilded antique harp, hand-painted furniture, gossamer drapes on French doors, intimate settee and casually tossed evening shoes and black silk bow tie helped create the mood, according to Ms. Sugarman.

"Swans in the Rain," an Impressionist-style painting by Candace W. Lovely on loan from the Jay family collection, helped complete the picture.

Ms. Sugarman was one of 10 Boston-area designers chosen to participate. She says she is delighted to have had the chance to work alongside such notable Boston designers as Fred Fiandaca and Benn Theodore. Winning an award made all the work worthwhile.

King inducted into corporation

Thomas L. King of Andover was inducted as a member of the Northeastern University Corporation during the annual corporation meeting held recently at the Ritz Carlton in Boston.

Mr. King is president and chief executive officer of Standex Corporation of Salem. Members of the University

Karen and Paul Sugarman are shown at the March of Dimes Celebrity Gourmet Gala in Boston.

"We're euphoric," Ms. Sugarman said. "It was a great honor to be recognized by such prestigious judges."

Judges included Chris Madden, author of "Interior Visions;" Kevin Madden, editor of House and Garden magazine; Edmond Gerhardt, faculty member at Rhode Island School of Design; Peri Wolfman and Charles Gold, authors of "The Perfect Setting."

Ms. Sugarman's next project will be to design a dining room, part of a showhouse for the Old York Historical Society, to be held starting July 28.

Corporation constitute the broadest-based governing body of the institution. New members are inducted during the annual meeting and begin their term July 1. The members of all other governing boards of the university, including the board of trustees and board of overseers, are drawn from the membership of the corporation.

THE SPINE

From front to back the spine should be straight up and down.

A side view of the normal spine should show four curves — two curves to the front and two to the back.

An auto accident, a severe fall or injury can cause these vertebrae to become subluxated causing pressure on the spinal nerves. Every organ in the body has a nerve supply and any time these nerves are pinched by misaligned vertebrae they can cause various discomforts — headaches, back or neck tension, shoulder pain, etc.

That leads us to ask:

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC AND HOW CAN IT HELP?

Chiropractic Care is a Drugless Natural Way to Good Health!

Discovered by D. D. Palmer in 1895, chiropractic today is widely recognized as a primary health care system and is included within the Medicare and Medicaid programs along with 640 insurance companies.

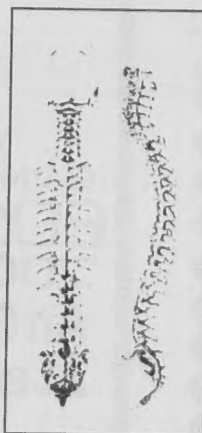

Many people think that chiropractic deals only with back problems — this is a misconception which we would like to explain. CHIROPRACTIC deals with the spinal column and the spinal cord which carries all the vital nerves of the entire body. The science of Chiropractic is founded on the premise that adequate nerve supply is of prime importance in regulating body function. Chiropractors use this scientific principle to maintain health and to correct the cause of disease. The soundness of its basic principle is documented by countless sufferers restored to good health by Chiropractic care.

There is no way that we can tell you all about Chiropractic care in a few short paragraphs — but a short visit to our office and we can answer any questions that you may have.

CHIROPRACTIC RESULTS

These are x-rays taken of a patient after an automobile accident, and the corrective results from the chiropractic adjustments.

TOWNTALK

Esther Parson, of Hidden Road, wrote us a short note about seeing a couple of deer over the weekend. "On Sunday evening at about six o'clock, I looked out my window and crossing the road from Sunset Rock Road was a large deer — I am sure a buck, the horns in velvet, and a few seconds later a second deer.

my red barn in this very suburban neighborhood. I ran for my camera but they moved. Ran down Hidden Road. They may have come from the Goldsmith Reservation and then gotten through to Pike School (close by). Perhaps others have reported seeing them. I am not concerned about Lyme disease. It was a pleasure."

"They came into the small field below

We had a note from Katy Gannon-Janelle, from Saco, Maine. She wanted to let us know that three people originally from Andover were chosen from 60 decorators who competed for rooms at a decorator show-house in York, Maine. Eighteen were chosen for the Olde York Historical Society project and the three from here are Ms. Gannon-Janelle, who lived here for 22 years before moving to Maine and whose family still lives at 6 Virginia Road; Karen Sugarman Interiors of North Main Street (see today's business pages for more news about her); and Jean Barrett of Vandervoort Interiors, who grew up on Salem Street and then moved to New Hampshire.

Ms. Gannon-Jan-

elle says she's doing the library; Ms. Sugarman is doing the dining room; and Ms. Barrett is doing the loggia and halls.

Harold and Margaret Gillam of Holt Road recently hosted the University of Washington Alumni Association and the New England Alumni chap-

PARENT PLANNING

Did you know one out of four Seniors will require nursing home care after reaching age 55? That Medicare covers only 2% of nursing home costs. That the average yearly cost in a nursing home is $25,000+. Most children find out about the prohibitive cost of caring for their Parents when it is too late, when nothing can be done to protect the Assets or Income of the healthy parent still at home. At ANDOVER FINANCIAL ADVISORS we feel that PARENT PLANNING is the only way to allow Senior Citizens a carefree retirement, the only way to protect their dignity and independence. Don't let your Parents find out, after all their savings have been depleted, that Medicare and Medicaid supplement insurances haven't done the job. Becoming a Medicaid recipient (a ward of the State) isn't as glamorous as it sounds. Protect their retirement (and Assets) with LONG TERM CARE insurance.

Garden plots

and prepares the land, Mr. Greer said.

Mary DeSmet, 89 Cross St., and her friend, Carter Roundtree, 49 Cross St., share the planting, cultivating and harvesting responsibilities of one plot.

They've planted corn, parsley, tomatoes, peppers, lettuce, peas, beans, squash and a variety of flowers, said Mrs. DeSmet.

"It's very relaxing and therapeutic to come down here and work in the garden," she said.

Mrs. DeSmet receives help from her 4-year-old daughter, Elizabeth. The two spent some time Monday night at the garden, mulching, watering and weeding.

Even Mrs. DeSmet's neighbors help. They've donated their grass clippings for mulch.

So far the lettuce and parsley have shown the most promise, she said.

"Some of the other gardens look really great," said

Mrs. DeSmet. "But, they are taken care of very well. I wish I had more time to spend on the garden."

Peter Wuehrmann, 3 Aspen Circle, said the garden

he shares with a friend, Jack Brown, 44 Cross St., would flourish with more attention, too. This is the fourth year he has planted a garden, but the first time he shared one.

Thier work schedules keep them from spending as much time as they would like caring for the garden. But, despite the lack of TLC he would like to give his garden, the vegetables are just fine, he said.

"The ground is really good and everything looks like it is coming up well," he said.

Mr. Wuehrmann's two sons, Drew, 5, and Jeff, 3, have taken an interest in the garden, too. The boys are watching the progress of the sunflowers they planted earlier this season.

His wife, Jan, isn't as enthusiastic about gardening as the rest of the family.

"This is really his project. I told him I would cook the vegetables, but not plant and weed them," Mrs. Wuehrmann said.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

New babies have an instinctive fear of being dropped which shows whenever their heavy heads are allowed to flop or their uncontrolled limbs dangle in space. They can neither support their own heads nor control their own muscles and they are only relaxed and happy when someone does it for them. In a crib or carriage the mattress provides support; in someone's arms the adult body supports the baby's body, but being picked up or put down introduces an alarming moment for the baby. Go slow and give this new baby a chance to understand the change in support.

Baby furniture by leading manufacturers is available at TINY TOTLAND. Open 9-5:30 Mon. & Th. 9-9. We carry everything from pacifiers to strollers. Toys for all ages... "heaven to seven". Auxiliary bishop visits Secular Franciscans

Bishop Roberto Gonzalez, auxiliary bishop of the Boston Archdiocese, will celebrate Mass Sunday, July 8, at 2 p.m. at St. Francis Church,
94 Bradford St., Lawrence.
The public is invited.

Bishop Gonzalez, a Franciscan, will be visiting the Secular Franciscan Fraternity.

West Andover.

When the seminary closed
due to lack of vocations, the Rev. Albin Janiunas invited the fraternity to meet in his church, St. Francis. The fraternity meets on the second Sunday of the month at 2 p.m.

Father Janiunas conducts Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, and a meeting and social hour follow.

The Secular Franciscans,
once called the third order,
are composed of people dedicated and professed to follow the rule of St. Francis while maintaining their way of life in the world, a spokesman said. The local fraternity began many years ago in the Franciscan Seminary in

There are two other Secular Franciscan fraternities in Lawrence; one at Holy Trinity parish and one at St.
Francis. A reception for the bishop will follow the Mass.

Congregation meets here

Congregation Tifereth Anshai Sfarad and Sons of Israel held its first Sabbath service in Andover June 22.
Through an arrangement with St. Augustine Church,
the service took place at the St. Augustine's Educational Center.

More than 75 people attended, filling the room to capacity.

Cantor Murray Simon
opened the special service with the "shehehiyanu," the blessing for happy occasions, and led the congregation
through the Sabbath prayers.

Many young children were present and were mesmerized by his explanations of the Sabbath traditions, said congregation spokesman Rich Maltzman.

The service was followed by an Oneg Shabbat, a reception including pastries and beverages prepared by the congregation. This was a chance for the newcomers to mingle with the cantor and other congregants.

"It was indeed a joyous occasion for all, young and old,
and a promise of things to come," Mr. Maltzman said.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 years ago, July 1890

J.W. Lindsay of Frye Village is to erect a new house on Walnut Avenue. Hardy & Cole have the contract for the work, and the ground is staked out.

Rev. J.J. Blair preached at the Chapel last Sabbath morning in exchange with Prof. J.P. Taylor.

The fourth of July celebration at Lawrence this year promises to be one of the best ever held there, and many from this town will probably attend.

Supervisor Waldin, according to the best estimate he can make, places the population of Lawrence by the present census at 44,500.

Harry Noyes, ex-captain of the Yale nine, coached the Yale team last week for the final contest with Harvard at Springfield. Yale won, 4 to 3, and thus gets the championship.

W.T. Sears and family of Boston are occupying the Means house on School street for the summer.

Pine Point, Maine seems to be a popular resort for Andover people. The following are there at present: Principal Bancroft, Mrs. Grace Whittemore and Prof. McCurdy, with their families.

75 years ago, July 1915

James Shattuck of Whittier street has secured a position in a Booth Harbor, Me., hotel for the summer.

It is expected that work on the Elm street improvement will be started next week.

Dr. C.E. Abbott, who is spending the summer at Pine Point, Me., spent a few days in town this week.

The Eagle Athletic Club is scheduled to play the Ensigns on the playstead tomorrow afternoon.

George W. McIntyre of Wakefield has been awarded the contract to build a house for D. Malcolm B. McTernan on Wolcott avenue. The cellar has been started, Fred Smith doing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. James Craig are at their summer home in Gloucester.

Eric Starbuck, for the past four years an instructor in the Westminster School, has been appointed to the teaching force of the Noble and Greenough School in Boston.

Dr. Alfred E. Sterns was awarded an honorary degree at Amherst Wednesday. He was been principal of the Academy since 1903. He graduated from Andover in 1890 and at Amherst in 1894, being class orator. His grandfather, the late Rev. William A. Sterns, was once president of Amherst.

50 years ago, July 1940

Opening day registration Monday at the three playgrounds promises a busy season. At the Central playgrounds 350 registered, at Ballardvale 80 and at Shawsheen 100.

Three Andover men will be eligible for appointment to the Andover police department when the occasion arises, they having passed the civil service examinations according to a list issued by the state civil service commission this week.

Edmond Hammond was elected chairman of the Andover Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies at an organization meeting Monday night.

An election under the National Labor Relations Board with the consent of the United Rubber Workers and the management for the Tyer Rubber company, will be held next Tuesday in the parking shed adjoining the office.

The question will be, "Do you desire to be represented for the purpose of collective bargaining by the United Rubber Workers?"

The local tax rate will be announced very shortly, but it is expected that it will not vary much if any from last year's thirty dollar rate.

25 years ago, July 1965

Voluntary restrictions on water use, imposed last week, have helped the water shortage situation but not enough to eliminate the need for enforced restrictions.

Youngsters will register this afternoon and Friday afternoon for the town playground program, and those who plan to take municipal swimming classes at Pomp's Pond have until July 6 to do so.

Sgt. Inspector Robert Deymond and Patrolman William Tammany of the Andover Police Department have been given a commendation for the "superior and meritorious manner in which they participated in the investigation, arrest, prosecution and conviction" of the man who murdered Andover gas station operator Irvin Hilton.

10 years ago, July 1980

Due to the rising cost of operating the annual 4th of July clambake and the gradual decrease in the number of clambake participants, the Civic Celebration Committee has decided not to sponsor an evening meal as part of this year's townwide celebration.

Recent comments from police and fire officials indicate they are having difficulty in locating addresses, when responding to requests for service from our citizens. Some numbers are distorted by age, weather, or hidden by landscaping. In fact, some structures have no numbers at all!

The Andover Senior Citizens Summer Lunch Program will run through Friday, Aug. 15. Lunch will be served at noon for the summer program and not 1 p.m. as previously announced. Andover residents age 60 and older are eligible to participate in the fifty cent lunch program.

Andover will receive $20,341 less in the next fiscal year in reimbursements from various state funds.

The cherry sheet figures, which reflect the estimated funds to be received from the state, announced last week, indicated that Andover would receive $3,116,474 from all sources.

Head of Collins Center quits

added.

Mr. Coppock wouldn't elaborate on those differences, but he said the AEA has agreed to release him from his three-year, $70,000-per-year contract.

Gerald Cohen, chairman of the endowment's board of trustees, wouldn't confirm Mr. Coppock's statement concerning release from his three-year contract. He said the entire board hasn't met yet, but board member Jared Clark has recommended the contract be dissolved.

Mr. Clark, an AEA trustee, will step down from the board of trustees to be acting director of the center until a new director can be hired.

"It was all quite sudden," Mr. Clark said of Mr. Coppock's resignation.

"We (AEA board members) don't fully understand it ourselves," he added.

Mr. Clark said there are still some details to be worked out, but the AEA board would like to see the center and Mr. Coppock part on an amicable basis.

In late April, Gerald Cohen, left, president of Andover Endowment For the Arts, posed with Bruce Coppock, then incoming director of the Collins Center.

Mr. Cohen said he is pleased the center will be run by Mr. Clark for the time being, but he would like to see Mr. Clark become the permanent Collins Center director.

Though Mr. Clark was pleased with his colleague's endorsement, the former Andover Town Manager said he would like to return to town or city management. Currently he is president of his own computer software business that sells financial, police and jail planning systems to municipalities.

He also said the AEA board hasn't had a chance to huddle and plan strategy for hiring a permanent director. The first order of business Mr. Clark said will be to begin the fall season of performers scheduled to appear at the center.

Mr. Coppock was formerly chairman of the New England Conservatory of Music's department of chamber music. He also performs on the cello with the Boston Chamber Music Society, an organization he co-founded 10 years ago.

The two employees the AEA hired along with Mr. Coppock will remain in AEA employ, said Mr. Clark. Bonnie Szarszynski and Mary Street began work at the Collins Center on Monday as planned.

Ms. Szarszynski is the new program manager and Ms. Street is the new director of development, responsible for fundraising, said Mr. Clark.

Recycling is mandatory

"It is mandatory — no question," Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said Monday.

But the town manager said a public education and awareness effort would be pursued rather than a punitive approach to enforcement.

"I think that compliance isn't going to be a problem in this community," he said.

Residents here understand the benefits of recycling, according to the town manager.

"They understand the environmental benefits. They understand the economic benefit of it," Mr. Stapczynski said.

Mr. Stapczynski signed the curbside recycling contract with Waste Management, of North Andover, Monday morning. The five-year contract is for the curbside collection of paper and glass.

Waste Management will distribute the 18-gallon recycling bins to homes during the week of July 30. Curbside collection will begin the week of Aug. 6.

Penguin Park tot lot is moving to soccer fields

ffic situation for both those using the park and passing motorists.

The planning department studied possible solutions to the problems at the Iceland Road site as well as the possibility of moving the new equipment to several other sites before recommending moving it to upper Shawsheen.

The equipment will be moved as soon as possible, according to Stephen Colyer, planning director.

"We have conservatively said two or three weeks," Mr. Colyer said Wednesday morning.

Planners will consult with a representative of Children's Playgrounds Inc., the equipment manufacturer, "to give us some guidance," Mr. Colyer said.

A volunteer workforce and town equipment will be organized to move the tot lot over to Burnham Road.

The move will not cost "a whole lot," according to Mr. Colyer.

"It's going to really depend on how many people we can get together to drag it over there," he said.

The move will be paid for out of Penguin Park Steering Committee funds and money set aside in the Recreation Department budget. The committee raised the funds to purchase the equipment, but the town all along had planned to help pay for the installation of the fence and some other items, according to Mr. Colyer.

Parking issue

Approximately 40 residents attended the board meeting Monday, including several who are involved with the Andover Soccer Association and who questioned the amount of parking available.

"You could probably fit 60, maybe even 70 cars on that site," Planning Director Colyer told the group.

Approximately 36 cars could be expected for each game during weekend matches and that number doubles when games are scheduled one after another, according to Cynthia Stolz, of 1 Waverly Drive, vice president of the soccer association.

The association has plans to use upper Shawsheen as a primary field for matches in the fall.

Michael J. Hart, of 91 Burnham Road, said he was surprised by Mr. Colyer's figures of 50 or 60 cars being able to park at the site. Several other neighbors also questioned the parking figures.

Mr. Colyer said the present parking could be expanded if it were needed, and that there is also room to move the soccer field around.

Shiva Sheel, of 3 Mercury Circle, told board members that moving the soccer field around on the lot had been tried before and that it wouldn't fit. Others said poor drainage on some parts of the field could cause a problem.

Selectman Gerald Silverman said there is plenty of room at upper Shawsheen for both the playground and the soccer field. The soccer association should be willing to work with the town to make the site work, he said.

"All I'm asking is that if you go with this site, that we are contacted," Ms. Stolz said, speaking for the soccer association.

"We don't want the same mistake to happen twice," said Beth Edelstein, of 4 Russett Lane, referring to the problems at Iceland Road.

"I'm pleased with the vote of selectmen," Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said. "The issues brought up by the Andover Soccer Association will be taken into account and I will be working with them to make sure the soccer program will not be negatively affected."

Police approved of the upper Shawsheen choice after conducting a traffic safety study, according to Mr. Stapczynski.

The study recommended no-parking signs be installed along Burnham Road to keep the roadway open, but otherwise did not point out the proximity of the horn bridge as a significant problem, according to Mr. Stapczynski.

Other sites considered

Solutions to the parking and traffic problems at the Iceland Road site proved too expensive for serious consideration, according to Mr. Stapczynski.

Poor soil conditions at the back of the Iceland lot would make it difficult and costly to put in parking. Also, Iceland Road is private. If public parking were constructed at the end of it, it would have to be brought up to standard and that would also be prohibitively expensive.

On top of these obstacles, the traffic on Lowell Street would continue to be hazardous.

The 11 other sites being considered last week were narrowed down to four, including lower Shawsheen, off Balmoral and York streets, middle Shawsheen, near the intersection of York Street and Burnham Road, Recreation Park, off Abbott Street, and upper Shawsheen.

A lack of off-street parking was the main reason the lower and middle Shawsheen sites were not recommended. The parking that is available at those sites is also a long walk from where the playground equipment would be located.

Rec Park was the second choice by both Mr. Stapczynski and the planning department. But while Rec Park is accessible by car, it is not near any of the town's residential areas and not easily accessible by pedestrians. Questions were also raised about the safety of someone there alone because of the remote location.

The Penguin Park steering committee presented the selectmen with a petition requesting that the park stay at Iceland Road, but acknowledging the problems with the site and supporting the upper Shawsheen choice if the equipment has to be moved.

James Sellers, of 40 York St., said he was one of those who worked to get the Shawsheen area listed on the National Historic Register and was concerned with the aesthetics of the finished park.

The plans for the original park call for a paved walkway for handicap access and a paved bike trail around the park, as well as an archway entrance.

James Barenboim, chairman of the board, assured Mr. Sellers and other neighbors that the planners and board members would have the final say on what went into the park and that the aesthetics of the neighborhood would be preserved.

Garden Club donates urns

The Andover Garden Club has donated a pair of period Victorian urns for the front of Old Town Hall. The selection of the urns was headed by Leslie Frost. The planting selection and installation committee members were Judy Wright, Constance Gilmore, Ann Lange, Sue Daly and Leslie Frost.

The urns are planted with Alberta spruce, rose begonias and variegated vinca.

Jackie Connor of Old Town Hall waters the urns daily. Kenneth Parker of the town of Andover installed the urns.

The money for the urns was raised at the Festival of Trees in December. Additional money earned supports the club's civic beautification projects in Andover and the scholarship fund. Ann C. Lange and Sue Daly were the fund-raiser's co-chairwomen.

Historical Society plans luncheons

By Barbara Thibault

The Andover Historical Society's lunchtime programs continue this summer. Bypass the scaffolding and join us on the side lawn every Wednesday at noon. Lemonade and cookies are provided so plan on bringing your lunch. Tables and chairs set in view of the flowering Marjorie Stearns Memorial Garden offer a restful retreat along Andover's bustling Main Street. New red cedar shingles that replicate 19th-century roof shakes greatly enhance the Amos Blanchard historic barn and recently applied paint primer enlivens the 1819 house museum.

After lunch a Main Street walking tour begins the first program on July 11. Starting at the Historical Society at 97 Main St., one can step back to the earlier 19th century and visualize the new Andover Village. Main Street, formerly the Essex Turnpike, was laid out in 1807-1808 to connect Boston and New Hampshire cities. Houses like this one were constructed in the predominating federal style by established residents. In this case, Amos Blanchard, descendant of a founding family and graduate of Phillips Academy, bought his lot from South Parish Church to be near first his paper mill and later the Andover Bank. Walking around the neighborhood to the church at the intersection of Central and School streets, takes one to the "main street" for 17th and 18th century Andover. Along the "Road to Boston," as Central Street was called, South Church, the Burying Ground, school site and houses at 23 Central St. and 2 Chestnut St. illustrate the town's early community center.

Onto Elm Square and the present Main Street, note the wood buildings at 13-15-17, the only remaining commercial structures common in mid-19th century village center. Substantial brick buildings like Town Hall, Bay Bank Merrimack Valley, Andover Savings Bank and the former post office built between 1858 and 1932 span a new period of growth for the town. Increased development continues today but these structures line the central business district and stand like old friends connecting the past and the present.

Residents complain about Walnut/Carmel intersection

By Tom Mullings

The intersection at Walnut Avenue and Carmel Avenue is an extremely hazardous location, according to some area residents.

Ruth Ann Fox of 50 Walnut Ave. says this intersection has always posed a problem. "How someone has not been killed is amazing," said Mrs. Fox, a resident here for 26 years.

In fact, there was a minor accident at this intersection as recently as June 12.

Connie Rulon-Miller of 47 Carmel Road said she is especially concerned because the intersection is the site of a school bus stop. "I have a 6-year-old son. I think that's why I'm more vocal," she said. "That's my beef, the bus stop."

Because of the location, Mrs. Rulon-Miller always waits for her son at the bus stop. "It makes me very nervous. It's an accident waiting to happen," she said.

Mrs. Fox's son, Justin, also said the bus stop location is ridiculous. "It's a matter of time before a serious accident happens."

However, police officer Jack Milne said the bus driver takes every precaution for the children. "He doesn't let the kids come out until all the cars are stopped," he said.

While Mrs. Rulon-Miller is certain the bus driver is careful, she said she would like to see a change in the route. "I'd rather see the bus come down and do a three-point turn," she said.

Mrs. Rulon-Miller, whose family has lived in the home for the past 14 months, said four accidents have already occurred there during that time. One accident, in particular, was frightfully loud, she said.

"It was terrible. It sends your heart into your stomach," she said.

The accidents have almost become commonplace to the neighbors. "They hear the sound and know exactly what it is," Mrs. Rulon-Miller said.

But, Mrs. Rulon-Miller said she still isn't used to the accidents. "I haven't become numb to it yet," she said.

Camie Overstake of 41 Carmel Road, a resident for 26 years, agrees. "It's hard to grow accustomed to the accidents. My first reaction is to call an ambulance," she said.

Justin Fox said the accidents usually happen during the warmer months. "It really isn't bad in the winter. It's in the summer and spring when the accidents happen a lot," he said.

Mrs. Overstake has had a ringside seat of the accidents over the years. Her home is located at the corner. "I love cars being upside down in my yard," she said. "I've had 26 years of accidents in my yard."

Some trees in front of her home have been sacrificed by the accidents, which worries Mrs. Overstake.

"There's nothing to protect the front of my house," she said. "The next serious accident will end up on my front door."

Her home is for sale and she acknowledges it is difficult. "It's not selling and it's not going to sell," she said.

The women believe the problems are caused by many factors, but the biggest one may be the unfamiliarity with the area. "People who don't live in the area are involved in the accidents," Mrs. Fox said.

There are two signs that caution a driver riding up Walnut Avenue of the upcoming intersection. However, because Carmel Road seems to almost sneak upon the driver, that person may be unaware of the intersection.

Also, people driving up this slightly steep portion of Walnut Avenue may have the tendency to accelerate. "You only need to go 30 miles per hour to make it up the hill," officer Milne said.

The driver trying to go north off of Carmel Road also faces a difficult task. Because of a blind spot on Walnut Avenue, coming with the praise. He told me I was the whole inspiration for the reporters' scene," Mr. Claffin said.

When the movie begins, Mr. Claffin's voice is the second you'll hear. He also appears in the movie as a radio reporter along with two other cast extras.

How did a Boston-based song writer get involved in a multi-million dollar Hollywood project? Easy, almost the entire soundtrack was written by musicians and song writers with strong Boston connections. The instrumental part of the final version was recorded in Boston as well.

Mr. Claffin's friend, Andy Paley, was one of the driving forces behind the "Dick Tracy" soundtrack. The two met in the mid-1980s while they were working on an album in Boston. Mr. Paley went on to work as a producer for Warner Brothers Records Inc. and its subsidiary, Sire Records, which released the "Dick Tracy" soundtrack.

A little more than a year ago, Mr. Claffin received a call from Mr. Paley, asking if he'd like to get together and work on a Warren Beatty movie soundtrack.

"Andy said, 'We gotta get together and work on this 'Dick Tracy' thing. We'll make a ton of money.' I thought he was pulling my leg," said Mr. Claffin.

A few weeks later he received another long-distance call from the West Coast. This time it was big time record producer, Seymour Stein from Warner Brothers. Mr. Stein said he was Federal Expressing some 1930s and 1940s records for him to listen to in Andover. He wanted Mr. Claffin to get a feel for the driver may not be able to judge if an automobile is coming.

The town has made some improvements, the women pointed out. Trees on private property were cut back, stop signs have been relocated, new stop signs have been added and warnings have been painted.

But are the town's changes enough?

Mrs. Rulon-Miller doesn't think so. "I don't think they've done enough until they move the bus stop."

"I think they've helped," Mrs. Overstake said. "But I think the accidents will still happen because people daydream and don't see the signs."

The police have been monitoring the area. Officer Milne, standing beside his motorcycle and holding a radar gun, said the police are interested in the residents' concerns. "They live in the area and see (the problems) a lot more than we do. We have to try to pin it down to a specific time," Officer Milne said.

the style of music Mr. Beatty wanted to use in the movie.

"I nearly dropped from shock. I thought Andy was kidding about the whole thing," said Mr. Claffin.

He was told Mr. Beatty didn't want to go into existing archives and buy the rights to some previously recorded songs. Mr. Beatty, he was told, wanted original music composed for the film.

Mr. Paley also enlisted the help of The White Heat Swing Orchestra, a Boston orchestral band he knew of from working in the area. All together, the group had one night before recording the demo to complete the

Sings at Sox game, then he's arrested

Boston police Friday night arrested a California man on an Andover warrant immediately after he finished singing the National Anthem to start the Boston Red Sox baseball game.

"Andy flew in from L.A. about 5 (p.m.) and he told us someone he met on the plane gave him Rolling Stones concert tickets and he had to leave the demo rehearsal session that night around 8:30," said Mr. Claffin.

Some of the songs that appear on the final version of the soundtrack were previously written, but during that short time nine songs were completed for the demo tape.

"I called him that night at his hotel at midnight to discuss changes in the songs," said Mr. Claffin.

"We were re-writing lines five minutes before the demo recording session that next day."

All but two of the nine songs were chosen for the final soundtrack, said Mr. Claffin. The other two, "I'm Going Bananas" and "Now I'm Following You" were chosen by the film's co-star, pop-singer Madonna, for her own album, "I'm Breathless."

"We had no idea who would sing these songs. We didn't know we were writing for Madonna," he said.

Some of the other notables featured on the movie soundtrack are Jerry Lee Lewis; Brenda Lee; Al Jarreau; rap musician Ice-T; k.d. lang, most noted for her country songs; Darlene Love, a former background singer for Phil Spector; and LaVern Baker, a veteran rhythm and blues singer.

Mr. Claffin has no aspirations at this time to go "Hollywood." He said he loved traveling to California where the movie was filmed at the sound stage at the Universal City studio. But, he also said it was the most boring experience, waiting hours to film just a few minutes of a scene.

Mr. Claffin was born in Belmont and has lived in Andover with his wife, Sarah, and 3-year-old daughter, Caroline, for the last two years.

He once lived in San Francisco, but he said he prefers Boston.

"I'm going to try and prove it (the West coast) isn't the only place where you can make your mark," he said. "With today's telecommunications I don't think it has to be."

"This just goes to show you Boston is where it's at sometimes!"

The charges stem from an incident at the Sheraton Andover Inn and Conference Center on Lowell Street.

Det. George Noonan of the Boston Police Department said Mr. Evans was arrested by Boston police at Fenway Park after singing the National Anthem in front of 33,000 Red Sox fans. He said a warrant for Mr. Evans' arrest had been issued last week by Lawrence District Court.

Genetics firm plans expansion in Andover

A public hearing on a proposal for the first 40,000 square-foot addition to the existing building will be in front of the Planning Board this Tuesday, July 10, at 8 p.m. at town offices.

Genetics Institute Inc., founded in 1980 and with corporate offices in Cambridge, is a biotechnology company that isolates and reproduces human proteins in the making of medicines. The company completed the existing 165,000 square-foot laboratory building on Burr Road in 1983.

Now at a point where it can become a full fledged pharmaceutical company, Genetics is looking to expand its development and manufacturing facilities.

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, James Greer, conservation agent, Laura Hill, planner, and Mr. Colyer took a tour of the Genetics facility on Burr Road last week to get an idea of exactly what the company does there.

"We thought it was important for our people to understand what they do," Mr. Colyer said.

Genetics is one of two firms in the country that are considered the "grandfathers" of biotechnology, according to Mr. Colyer.

"Biotechnology refers specifically to the splicing of genes or some kind of alteration of genetic material," said Everett Penney, Andover's health director. "They do research and development of genetic material and they do clinical production of genetic material."

Cells produce proteins, some of which can be used to fight disease. Genetics' scientists isolate cells that produce desired proteins, place them in an environment to enhance their reproduction, then harvest the target proteins.

Protein products currently being produced and tested by Genetics could be used to dissolve the blood clotting associated with heart attacks or to enhance the blood clotting in hemophiliacs. One product could assist the growth of bone and cartilage to fight arthritis and another could reduce the need for kidney dialysis by stimulating production of red blood cells in bone marrow.

"This technology is on the cutting edge," according to Mr. Colyer.

Regulations in place

Biotechnology is a growth industry and one that could help Andover increase its tax base at a time when new growth is sorely needed.

A few years ago, after a number of biotech firms inquired about settling in Andover, the Board of Health developed a set of regulations "to address the spectrum of industries that could come in," according to Mr.

Penney.

The DNA Molecule Regulations revolve mainly around the use of biological materials within the plant and with the transportation of materials in and out of town, according to Penney. They also deal with the handling of biological waste, which the health director said is a lot easier than dealing with chemicals.

"You're dealing with biological material, which is easier because you can kill off the living organisms," Mr. Penney said. "They have extensive and elaborate systems for that kind of treatment."

"They came here because we have the regulations in place," Mr. Colyer said. "We are one of the few communities that have regulations to deal with biomed and biotech."

Moral, ethical issues

"The big issues of genetic engineering are the philosophical, ethical and moral questions of manipulation of the human genome," Mr. Penney said, referring to a person's genetic map.

The possibility of engineering the eye color or sex of a human baby is an unsettling thought for some people. But Mr. Penney has seen firsthand the positive aspects of the industry.

"Insulin is now produced genetically," Mr. Penney said.

He remembers as a pharmaceutical student in college visiting farms of pigs and cows being raised and slaughtered for insulin. Now scientists take a gene from a human cell and grow human insulin, the director said.

"And it's 100 percent pure," Mr. Penney said.

Between the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and local controls, Mr. Penney said the biotech industry is more than adequately regulated.

"We really have overkill," he said.

Mr. Penney is one of the two members of the Board of Health who serve on the Institutional Biotech Safety Committee here in town. The committee meets with Genetics officials every three months to keep up to date on the variety of work that is going on at the company.

A "Genetics 101" course will be conducted by Mr. Penney later this month for the water, sewer and electrical inspectors and any other town employees who may have to visit the Genetics plant and who may have questions about biotech.

Genetics employs 250 to 260 people now at the Andover facility. The addition currently being proposed would house approximately 30 new jobs, according to Mr. Colyer.

COOKING

Picnic basket should be standard in every kitchen

By Maria Moskos

A picnic basket is standard equipment in my kitchen. This is why I frequently give a well-stocked picnic basket filled with color-coordinated items for a bridal shower gift. It's fun to choose picnic items that fit the individual's personality, lifestyle and color preferences. You can also include an appropriate wine from a local vineyard and several of your favorite picnic recipes.

Picnics can be peasant style or very sophisticated, depending on your mood or destination. A picnic overlooking the sea should definitely include a menu of something that swims, napkins with a shell or fish motif and a cold salad served in a large quahog shell. A picnic in a meadow or garden setting could include gazpacho served in different colored scooped out bell peppers. A pattypan squash with a carved out-cover can be hollowed out to serve as the perfect container for all the vegetable garnishes to crown the gazpacho. After filling the pattypan squash with sections of different garnishes, the cover is replaced to keep the contents in place, air tight and ready to serve its dual purpose as a centerpiece spruced up with a few meadow daisies or buttercups picked "on location." Gazpacho (prepared in a food processor)

½ large Spanish onion, peeled and quartered

1½ medium cucumbers, peeled and cut into chunks

2 small bell peppers, seeded and cut into eights

6 large ripened garden tomatoes, peeled and cut into eights

5 large garlic cloves

¼ cup tomato juice

½ cup olive oil

1 tsp. chili powder

2 tsp. kosher salt

With the metal blade in place, place the onion in the processor bowl. Process turning on and off rapidly until finely chopped (about five seconds). Transfer onion to a large bowl. Repeat with cucumbers and peppers adding back to the bowl with the onions. Process five of the tomatoes until evenly chopped into small pieces. Transfer to same bowl. Process the remaining tomato with the garlic, tomato juice, olive oil and chili powder until a smooth liquid is formed. Combine with chopped vegetables and chill in a covered container. Makes 1½ quarts.

To pack for the picnic, place gazpacho in a thermal container or use plastic container surrounded by ice packs. Include scooped out bell peppers of different colors to serve as containers.

Garnishes

Chop an onion, green or red bell peppers, celery and cucumbers into small pieces by hand and arrange in separate sections in hollowed out pattypan squash. Bring a quarter piece of a red bell pepper to serve as a scoop for garnishes.

Peasant bread

A large round crusty loaf of Italian bread, scooped out, stuffed, baked, sliced into wedges is a wonderful accompaniment following chilled gazpacho.

Large well done 10" round Italian bread

1½ lb. fine quality prosciutto, thinly sliced

1 lb. fresh spinach, cleaned, washed, blanched two minutes and drained

5 oz. sliced black olives

4 cloves garlic, minced

salt, fresh-ground black pepper

2 tbsp. olive oil

1 lb. Ricotta cheese

8 oz. full cream mozzarella, sliced

Olive oil

Slice the top off the Italian bread in one piece. Set aside. Cut down around the loaf's edge about an inch from the sides and 1/2 inch from the bread base. Pull out the interior bread with your fingers. Brush the cavity lightly with olive oil and line with overlapping prosciutto slices radiating from the center of the loaf and covering its sides.

Add the black olives, garlic and seasonings to the spinach along with two tablespoons olive oil and mix well. Use a spatula to spread spinach mixture over prosciutto layer. Spread a layer of ricotta cheese followed by a layer of the mozzarella slices.

Fold the ends of the prosciutto slices over the mozzarella layer to cover the top of the stuffing. Set the reserved lid in and chill several hours to set the filling. Before leaving for your picnic, brush the top and sides of the loaf with olive oil and bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 30 minutes until it's heated through. Place on a round wooden board, insert a sharp knife between the board and the loaf, wrap in a brightly-colored tea towel knotted on the top and place in a thermal container. This ensures a crusty bread. Serve cut into wedges.

Rhythm of recycling

This community owes a great deal to the women pictured on page three in today's Townsman. They, and others who didn't make it to the photo session, are members of Andover Recycling, the group that started saving Andover's small part of the environment 20 years ago.

They have organized materials and people, insisted on standards, pushed what they believed was a necessity, stood at recycle bins on Saturdays when it would have been more convenient to be someplace else, and answered endless questions about the process of recycling.

They volunteered scores of hours every week to see that Andover got started on its part of being environmentally responsible.

Now the town has taken over their work by electing to pay for curbside recycling. That is good and because the Board of Selectmen and town manager have declared recycling will be mandatory, residents don't have a choice. They will have to participate in the work begun by Andover Recycling.

Although the town has declared that it won't police residents' garbage bags to make sure they're recycling, recycling is mandatory. It may be difficult to figure out exactly what can be recycled and what cannot, and when and how to do it. But after asking those questions and setting up bins for each type of item to be recycled, residents will find themselves in the rhythm of recycling. In addition, the Townsman often will run stories about how and when to recycle.

Getting into the rhythm of recycling is a good way to say thank you to the women who began the effort here.

He says O'Neill's library stance is political

Editor, Townsman:

After thinking about the recent letter from Sue O'Neill I pen this letter. Mind you, this is not a reply dashed off quickly.

I am glad that Ms. O'Neill finds the library to be a "lovely" facility and that she likes the people working there. Great. So now, let's turn it into a lovely second playground for those kids whose "rights" have been denied and who have a God-given "right" to do so.

You see, what it comes down to is that Ms. O'Neill wants to become a selectwoman and how better than to jump on this bandwagon. All the work-to-rule dedicated teachers and the school-above-all-else gang. Her own words are misleading. And that she likes the people working there and then the later statement, "I hope it makes people, maybe even people in the library, think." If that isn't a left or right hand dig I don't know what is. It seems that anything today that forbids something is "bad." Therefore, let the games begin.

You realize of course that as far as the library is concerned, the whole matter started when some woman had to pay a fine for video tapes! However, once the woman had to pay the fine she got together with some of the dedicated work-to-rule teachers and others who fight the good fight against injustice as long as it does not hurt them.

Then we get the aspiring politicians like Ms. O'Neill in the act and lo and behold, we have the second American revolution.

The kids didn't even know or much less care about the upstairs library. After all, the children were told to start the petition and, believe me, you better do as you are told if you know what's good for you.

Never mind the children's library downstairs on the ground floor or the various school libraries, but then the work-to-rule dedicated teachers maybe would have to work outside the rule.

Because Ms. O'Neill brought the issue up (political motivation) let me add. From what I understand about the "girl from Maine" is that she ran/built a playground in Maine for kids. Second, Ms. O'Neill had nothing but political motivation for writing said letter, she would dearly love to become a selectwoman and plans to do so — at what cost?

Last, I am not employed by the town in any way, shape or manner, nor am I associated with the library in any way. Also, I do not have any political plans, ambitions or what have you.

Environmentalists wants Big Mac package change

Editor, Townsman:

On May 4 and again on June 1 local area environmental activists, People for the Environment, met with McDonald's personnel to discuss the fast food chain's use of Styrofoam packaging.

People for the Environment communicated to McDonald's that the health hazards of Styrofoam are far greater than most people realize. The meetings took place at the North Andover McDonald's and at the home of McDonald's franchise owner, Tom Curtin, in Andover. Participants included McDonald's owner/operators Tom, Mike and Beth Curtin; John Hogan from Belmont; Robert McDougall, vice president, Colley/McCoy McDonald's franchise, Windham, N.H.; Ann Connolly, public affairs, McDonald's Corporation, Westwood; Dan Sprehe, environmental affairs consultant, McDonald's Corporation, Chicago; and several others representing McDonald's Styrofoam position.

Representing People for the Environment were Fred and Constance Glore, Ross Bluestein, National Toxics Campaign Fund, Boston, Gina and David Biddiford and Carol Chanler from the Greater Lawrence Environmental Network.

People for the Environment believes that the hazards of manufacturing, using and disposing of Styrofoam are well documented in scientific studies both in the United States and in Europe. The group is concerned about health aspects of styrene, the major component of Styrofoam (polystyrene).

Styrene is highly toxic and carcinogenic in laboratory animals. Both styrene and heavy metals are known to leach into food from the packaging. A 1986 EPA study found styrene in 100 percent of human fatty tissue and in human breast milk. Chromosomal damage in laboratory workers has been directly traced to styrene. Also of concern is a National Bureau of Standards fire research test that showed 57 chemicals resulted from the burning of Styrofoam. McDonald's advocates the recycling of Styrofoam into building products and insulation.

People for the Environment believes home owners and firefighters need to be aware of the extreme danger of exposure to any of these products when burned.

As a result of their research, People for the Environment have twice asked McDonald's to change their packaging. Unbleached, biodegra-deable paper products are available that would help eliminate many of the environmental and health problems associated with Styrofoam packaging. McDonald's policy is to continue the use of Styrofoam.

Environmental actions are planned by People for the Environment to educate the consumer about Styrofoam. On Tuesday, July 17, from 7 to 9 p.m., a public forum to address the impact of Styrofoam on the environment and human health will be held at Memorial Hall Library in Andover.

Nine year old asks Dukakis to 'keep school the way it is'

Editor, Townsman:
Dear Mr. Dukakis,

My name is Carrie Rainen. I'm Edward and Shelly Rainen's daughter. Why are you taking away some things from our schools? I may be a kid and some kids hate school, but since you won the president's election in our school, I feel we should have our rights to keep our school the way it is. And how come it is that on Route 93 to Boston the lights are on day and night? Don't higher the taxes or throw people or school workers on the streets, instead throw the lights out. As Paul Revere said, "We paid taxes and got nothing for them. You get schools, parks and lots more, but we got nothing." Put the money back into our schools, instead of wasting it on unnecessary electricity.

Please stop what you're doing before it's too late. If you want, you can talk to my dad.

Nothing new at the library

Although Nancy Jacobson, director of Memorial Hall Library, is back from vacation, there is no change in the library's position on its children's access policy. Last week, the Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union Federation and the Massachusetts Library Association both contacted the library and asked that children have access to all areas at the library.

Currently, children in sixth grade and younger are not allowed on the main floor of the library without written permission from the children's librarian or without a parent.

"Nothing has changed because the trustees did determine they would set up a subcommittee for the summer," said Norma Gammon, public relations director for the library.

Ms. Gammon said currently four library trustees are out of town. She said the full board of trustees will not meet until September and no change in library policy can be made without the full board. A subcommittee of two trustees is studying the access policy, among other items

Young pianists give recitals in Andover

Alaina Schroeder and Debra Wu of Andover recently gave recitals for their families and invited guests in Memorial Hall. Both young women are honors students.

In addition to being active in many high school activities, they participated in area-wide master classes and recitals, the Merrimack Valley Music Festival and the National Piano Playing Auditions, sponsored by the American College of Musicians.

Miss Schroeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schroeder, is a member of the Andover High School Color Guard and Madrigal Singers. She is the accompanist for the South Church Youth Choir and various soloists. She also accompanied the Madrigal Singers in their recent benefit performance.

Miss Schroeder is currently attending a chamber music workshop at the University of New Hampshire.

Her program included "Invention No. 13" by Bach; "Sonata, Op. 79, Andante and Vivace" by Beethoven; "Scherzo," Op. posthumous by Schubert; "The Little Shepherd" from Debussy's "The Children's Corner"; and Golliwog's "Cakewalk."

Miss Wu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wu, is a 1990 graduate of Andover High. She will continue her education in California, majoring in computer science.

The American College of Musicians awarded her a high school diploma after she played a memorized 16-piece program, including scales, chords, arpeggios, transpositions, modulations and sight reading.

She was the pianist for the high school production of "Fiddler on the Roof."

Miss Wu's program included "Prelude and Fugue, No. 2" from Bach's "Well-Tempered Clavier"; "Sonata, K.283, Allegro" by Mozart; "Shadow Dance" by MacDowell; "Waltz, Op. 60, No. 2" by Chopin; and "Le petit ane blanc" by Ibert.

Miss Schroeder and Miss Wu are students of June Persing, a nationally certified member of Music Teachers National Association. She serves as an adjudicator for the American College of Musicians and is a board member of the Merrimack Valley Music Teachers Association.

DCS slates whale watch

Andover's Department of Community Services is organizing a day on the waters of Massachusetts Bay Thursday, July 19. Prospective whale-watchers will cruise through the harbor islands and out to Stellwagon Bank to view the great humpback and finback whales in their natural habitat.

It's possible to see dolphins as well as seabirds, fishing druggers, ships and yachts.

The captain will narrate the cruise aboard the Cape Ann, a 400-passenger, three-deck vessel. Luncheon and beverages will be available aboard ship. Children under 13 must be accompanied by an adult. Bring a camera and warm clothing as the weather is always cooler off the water.

The bus leaves for Boston at 8:45 a.m. and returns at approximately 5:30 p.m.

The raindate is July 26. The cost is $21 per person, and the registration deadline is Monday, July 9.

DCS office hours are Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Park turns into theater

The Department of Community Services will offer movies and music in The Park on Bartlett Street this summer.

Feature-length movies will be shown Mondays at dusk for free. Should it rain, scheduled movies will be held on Tuesday. Dusk falls approximately at 9 p.m. at summer's start.

and 7 p.m. towards the season's end.

American Cancer Society volunteers Vincent Cottone as Abe Lincoln and Laura Whitmore get ready for the society's penny drive Saturday.

A little common cents goes a long way for cause

The American Cancer Society's penny drive will be held at the site of the former Thompson's Restaurant at the intersections of routes 114 and 125 in North Andover Saturday, July 7, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Old-fashioned penny candy, hot dogs, popcorn, music and fun will be the themes of the day. All of the events and activities will call for payment in pennies. Prizes will be given to those whose pennies have been stored in the most unusual containers and those who turn in the most pennies.

Collection jugs, which are in many locations throughout Andover, North Andover, Lawrence, North Reading and Methuen, will be rounded up, emptied and counted in an old-time coin sorter/counter. Pennies that were raised at Hispanic Week activities, Andover Bazaar Days and the North Andover Fourth of July picnic on the town common will be turned in and counted.

Lawrence resident Carl Schiavone has donated the use of an armored car for the day to accumulate the often-neglected coins, and area banks have pitched in. A remote radio broadcast will feature such songs as "Pennies from Heaven" and "Three Coins in a Fountain."

The idea for the drive stemmed from a donation of pennies received by the local unit from the spouse of a cancer victim. A committee was formed to look into penny-raising as a "relatively painless way of letting everyone participate," said a spokesman.

"We all have at least a few pennies; some have tens of thousands squirreled away," he added.

The public has been urged to "use good cents...help fight cancer" and to "help free Lincoln." The New York offices of Guinness Book of World Records were contacted.

If you are able to attend, you may donate pennies (silver coins and paper money will also be accepted) or get more information by contacting Ann Grecoe or Joan Rosenblatt of Andover, Nancy Ardito of North Andover, Carol Mason of North Reading, Lillian Shaheen of Lawrence or Terry Fiamma or Jim Hennessey, both of Methuen.

There are 145 copper pennies in a pound, according to Michael White of the U.S. Bureau of the Mint.

Andover relives July Fourth on cable

Two Andover High School students will tape and present "Andover Celebrates Fourth of July" during the week of July 9, barring any technical difficulties.

Ed Moore and Chad Murphy will tape local favorites such as the Horribles Parade and the music of the Middlesex Concert Band.

"Creating a Healthy Environment" presents a new episode covering indoor air pollution, lead poisoning and scrap metal recycling.

Health officer Dan Tremblay has traveled the countryside looking for new information to present about public health.

"New studies have shown that damage to children's intellect from lead poisoning occurs at significantly lower levels of exposure than previously thought," Mr. Tremblay said.

"It is important for parents to know this so that they can protect their children. This is why I do this show."

"Between Takes," a program from Boston Community Services, looks at how to help children cope with the death of a loved one with advice from registered nurse Jean Driscoll.

Local Access 11 will repeat "Ancient Rites," a modern dance choreographed by Andover resident Becky Arnold, and a video about the Greater Lawrence Community Boating Program.

2 locals named to Globe All-Scholastic

Chris Eggert and David Blank, students at Andover High School, were named to the Boston Globe All-Scholastic baseball team. Eggert was named Division I Player of the Year.

He had a 6-0 pitching record with a 1.36 ERA through 46 innings, including 57 strikeouts. The 6-foot-3-inch senior also batted .361 and drove in 19 runs to capture the league MVP title. An honor roll student, Eggert will attend Assumption College in the fall.

Blank, a junior, compiled a 6-1 pitching record through 59 innings, striking out 84 batters. He allowed only 24 hits and had a 0.59 ERA. He pitched five one-hitters this season and claimed a spot on the Merrimack Valley all-star team. A .333 hitter in his two years on the varsity, Blank also enjoys football and basketball.

It's the Braves against the Twins

By Jim Arnold

Wins in their respective league title games boosted the Braves and Twins into the Andover Little League majors town championship series.

Manager Art Sullivan's Braves won their 11th straight game, defeating the Pirates in the National League playoff game. The Pirates had won the league's first half, while the torrid Braves swept to the second-half title without losing.

The Braves enter the town championship series with an overall 15-2 ledger.

Manager Steve Tisbert's Twins defeated the Red Sox 11-0 to win the American League playoff game. The Red Sox had won the league's first half, while the Twins had won the second half.

The Twins enter the town championship series with an overall 14-3 record.

In their lone matchup this season, the Twins beat the Braves convincingly, 10-3.

The Braves-Twins matchup is a change; the Red Sox and Cardinals had tangled with each other for the town title in 1987, 1988, and 1989.

The town championship series was to be played after Townsman presstime.

Braves 5, Pirates 1

Injury prevented Pirate ace Jason Caverly from pitching this playoff tilt, but his teammate, Louis Capobianco, hurled heroically in defeat.

Capobianco kept his team close until late, when Todd Wilson blasted a two-run homer to put the Braves ahead 5-1.

Even then, the Pirates fought back, loading the bases in the top of the sixth.

But Brave ace Nikki Bilwakesh bore down to strike out the final Pirate batter to ensure his team's trip to the championship series.

Bilwakesh was terrific on the mound, scattering just three hits in this clutch effort.

Wilson was an offensive catalyst for the Braves all evening; besides his homer, he also drove in a Brave run in a two-run first inning.

Twins 11, Red Sox 0

During the regular season, the Red Sox had seized last-inning comeback wins both times the teams met.

Andover Blue, champions of the Suburban Pony League for the last three years, is off to an awesome start. They had six straight wins, and including winning the last 11 games in 1989, won 17 straight. The Blues have won 62 games and lost seven since 1987.

The 1990 Blue team is managed by Joe Iarrobino, assisted by Coach Dick Allard.

The pitching is paced by Justin Hesenius, who is 3 and 0. Gus Quattelbaum (2 and 0), Scott Henry (1 and 0), Jeff Lembo and Pet Murphy have been solid and consistent in their efforts.

Four hitters are over 500 and one over 600. The team batting average is a lusty .375. Pacing the offense are Andy Novelline, Justin Hesenius, Gus Quattelbaum, Scott Henry and Jeff Lembo.

The defense has been rock solid with Josh Nelken the key to the infield play. Paul Allard and Jon Iarrobino have been outstanding behind the plate and Steve Shepard, Matt Wolcott, Chris Sintros and Toby Guzowski have been outstanding in the outfield.

Three newcomers are 13-year-olds Todd Harris, who has been hurt, Rob Derba and Dana McCann.

Andover Blue 14 - Reading 3

In their opening game, the Blue scored six runs in the first inning and seven in the fourth to provide Justin Hesenius with a large cushion as they buried the Astros 14-3. Hesenius and reliever Jeff Lembo threw strikes and neither walked a batter. The Blue banged out 14 hits, paced by Gus Quattelbaum's three-for-three, a double and three runs batted in. Justin Hesenius, Matt Wolcott, Scott Henry and Andy Novelline contributed two hits. In the first inning, Paul Allard singled, with two out Quattelbaum singled, Shepard walked, Wolcott cracked a two-run doubles and Henry, Lembo and Novelline singled driving in a run each.

Andover Blue 11 - North Reading 0

Scott Henry and Rob Derba combined for a three-hit shutout in this game against North Reading. Henry allowed only three hits and struck out five in the first four innings. Derba pitched two hitless innings. The Blue scored two in the first when Hesenius singled in Nelken and Allard, who led off the game with singles. The Blue exploded in the second inning for six runs to put this one away. Henry and Jeff Lembo singled and Novelline was hit by a pitch. Nelken reached on an error scoring Henry, Allard walked scoring Lembo and Hesenius smashed a bases-clearing triple and scored on an error. Blue added three in the third. With two out Novelline ripped a triple and Nelken, Allard, Hesenius and Quattelbaum had base hits. The offense was paced by Hesenius with two hits and three RBIs and Josh Nelken with two hits.

Andover Blue 13 - Reading Wisemen 3

The combination of good pitching and good hitting paced the Blue to a 13-3 victory over the Reading Wisemen. Jeff Lembo had three hits and Steve Shepard two. Reading pitchers walked 14 batters and Andy Novelline walked four straight times. Gus Quattelbaum pitched five innings, yielding two runs on five hits. Pete Murphy finished up allowing one run in two innings.

The Blue scored two in the second when Wolcott and Novelline walked, Scott Henry singled and Josh Nelken was hit by a pitch scoring Wolcott and Paul Allard walked scoring Novelline. In the third Quattelbaum walked, and with two outs, Novelline and Henry walked and Nelken doubled scoring Quattelbaum. Novelline and Henry scored on a wild pitch. The Blue scored three in the fourth and four in the fifth to cap off another solid effort and raise their record to 3 and 0.

Andover Blue 8 - Andover Gold 4

The Blue have beaten the Gold eight straight times in their rivalry and prevailed again 8-4. Justin Hesenius hurled a seven-hitter, striking out three and walking just two.

The Blue started scoring in the first with three runs when Paul Allard and Justin Hesenius singled and Steve Shepard drilled a single driving in two runs. Shepard scored on a passed ball and it was 3-1.

The Blue added two more in the second when Andy Novelline singled and scored on Josh Nelken's base hit to leftfield. Nelken scored on Gus Quattelbaum's RBI single. Rick Saggese had a two-run single in the third for the Gold. However, the Blue got two in the fourth when Jeff Lembo and Josh Nelken tripled and Nelken scored on a fielder's choice. This win put the undefeated Blue in sole possession of first place and Gold suffered their first loss of the year.

Andover Blue 10 - Winthrop 6

This was the Blue's toughest game of the year. The Blue saw a 5-1 lead disappear and trailed for the first time, 6-5, after five innings. But a five-run sixth and a great relief effort by Justin Hesenius gave the Blue a 10-6 win. Paul Allard had three hits, Justin and Quattelbaum, two hits each. Matt Wolcott made the catch of the year on dazzling diving catch of a line drive in the third inning.

The Blue scored two in the first on two errors and a base hit by Paul Allard, picked up two more in the third when Allard doubled, Hesenius singled scoring Allard and Hesenius scored on Gus Quattelbaum's base hit.

Hesenius reached on an error and Quattelbaum singled. Hesenius scored as part of a double steal to tie the game. The Blue won the game in the sixth as Guzowski singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Scott Henry's single. Nelken walked and Allard singled scoring Henry, Allard and Hesenius singled and Quattelbaum had a sacrifice fly to close out the scoring.

Andover Blue 13 - Lynnfield 5

The Andover Blue won their sixth straight 13-5 over Lynnfield. As usual the Blue was paced by a strong effort by Gus Quattelbaum who won his second of the year as he allowed one run in four innings. Pete Murphy and Jeff Lembo pitched well in relief.

Justin Hesenius had two hits and two runs batted in, Gus Quattelbaum had two hits and Andy Novelline had two hits and a run batted in. The Blue scored one in the first, three in the second and seven in the third. In the third, Andy Novelline ripped a single, Matt Wolcott walked and Chris Sintros sacrificed. Both Allard and Nelken reached on errors and Andover Blue had a 4-1 lead. Hesenius singled, Quattelbaum tripled, Shepard walked and Novelline singled, scoring Hesenius, Wolcott singled, Sintros walked, Nelken reached on an error, Hesenius ripped and Wolcott singled and the Blue led 11-1. They then scored a couple of insurance runs to win 13-5.

Pony Gold hits Reading Y's

By Rick Harrison

Andover Gold slugged the Reading Y's Men 10-2 in Suburban Pony League action last week, improving their SPL record to 3-1 and remaining tied for second place in the early-season standings.

A scheduled weekend contest against the Reading Astros was rained out.

Gold is currently in the midst of a busy week, which started Tuesday night against Wilmington with AG missing several key players because of basketball camps, July 4 holiday vacations and the in-town Senior League championship play-offs.

Thursday night Gold is scheduled to host Winthrop at Andover High (6 p.m.), Friday evening

Pony Gold hits Reading

(Continued from page 37) AG travels to Stoneham, and Saturday morning the locals journey to North Reading for a 10 a.m. game. Andover Gold, 10-2

Matt Marvin (2-1) had a three-hit shutout working for five innings, and finished with a complete-game seven-hitter as Gold stopped the Reading Y's Men at Andover High.

Marvin, who tossed the first of back-to-back Gold shutouts in his initial start, struck out three, walked three and threw 91 pitches.

A big seven-run third, in which 11 AG batters paraded to the plate, led the assault.

John Shea put together a perfect 4-for-4 night at the plate, including a double and one RBI, while Danny Hansberry went 2-for-2 and Mike Sullivan added a pair of singles and two stolen bases.

Brian Flanagan delivered the biggest stroke in the third inning, lashing a bases-loaded three-run triple, and he also smacked a single.

Marvin helped himself with a two-run single, and Rick Saggese drove in two runs with a single and fielder's choice grounder.

Mike Famiglietti cracked a double, and rounding out the 16-hit attack with one single apiece were Rick Mendez, Todd Murray and Andy Brown.

Sam McLellan also contributed to the offense with a perfectly-executed suicide squeeze bunt.

Gold continued to play outstanding defense, shortstop Mike Sullivan handling seven chances flawlessly (four putouts, three assists) for the second straight game.

Danny Hansberry and Mike Famiglietti both made nice running catches in leftfield, while Rick Mendez had two grabs in rightfield and Todd Murray called another solid game at catcher.

Braves vs. Twins

But Twin hearts were not to be broken on this night.

Four runs in the first, three more in the second, and four nail-in-the-coffin tallies in the sixth were ten more than the Twins needed.

David Salafia pitched the distance for the Twins, giving up just three hits while striking out nine. He did not allow a Red Sox runner to reach third base.

Offensive heroes were many.

Jon Adams stroked a single and double. Pat Sharkey knocked in four runs with two hits. Kevin Farrah singled and tripled. Joe Sciolla scored twice and slammed home two more.

Defensively, Robert Berberian and Josh Mann made key plays.

For the Red Sox, Ted Witman reached base three times, and Ryan Martin played well at shortstop.

Playgrounds list the week's events

The Andover Department of Community Services has summer playground programs running at several sites around town. The counselors wrote the following accounts of the first week's activities.

South School playground

The first week of playground started off well at South School. Jen Alyward, Jen Schapira, Shira Hermosa, Shannon Lee, Andrea Catanzaro, Megan Lynch, Vanessa Blank, Jeff Mazza, Marc Edwards, Zach Smith, Jon Germain, Andy Houston, Travis Shettle and Todd Wilson are the camp's leaders.

The staff has four new volunteers this year: Becky Crispo, Ali Hamilton, Courtney Nugent and Rocky Tradd (Stevie Tradd's big brother). Katie Nugent and McKenzie Jones were painting maniacs. Zack Jonas participated in everything. Abbi Hermosa attended every day, limping her way to camp on crutches as she recovers from an injury. Timmy Houston was star hockey goalie all week. Kim McKew kept everyone amused with her four-hour stories. Michael and Timmy Sheehy, do you come from a hockey family or something?

Sheehee/Shawnee

The first week at Camp Sheehee/Shawnee went well. The week started with crayon oil pictures. Andrew Christopher, Meg Sullivan, Sophie Eustis and Lisa Valera made beautiful pictures. Tuesday was bubbles day. Dina Carusi, Dylan Kelley and Daniel Cote had a great time making huge bubbles. Bead jewelry was the special activity for Wednesday. Nina Morency-Brassard, Mitchell Torow, David Byrne and Heather McCann made gorgeous necklaces. Thursday was birthday day. Everyone exchanged presents and ate cupcakes. The week ended with the making of tissue paper flowers and playing a game of red light, green light.

More than 60 kids signed up the first week of Bancroft. Ed Owens, Megan Lochmann and Greg Gigliotti, playground leaders, joined the kids in the making of friendship pins in which Kaitlin Hill and Setarreh Massihzadegan made bead bracelets. Other events included bubble making, sponge painting, rock sculptures and the Yankee Swap of presents. The outlook for Friday is to make tie dye shirts and gimp bracelets.

HaKowWee

The first week at Camp HaKowWee started with a game of capture the flag. Some outstanding players were Jason Shaw, Ian Darling, Jeff Webber, Lydia Kardos, Shinjiro Kinugasa and Tara Locke, who captured the flag and won the game for her team. Other activities were parachute games, creating human knots and red rover and biweekly tennis lessons with Nunu Chen, Marty Karim, Sarah Koltz, Stephanie Ciampa, Judit Vajda and Sean O'Neill.

Catherine Bakulski, Douglas Cooper, Kristin Wilson, Adam Caterino and Trisha McKew learned about the history of Poms Pond on Tuesday's nature walk. All of Camp HaKowWee participated in "adopting a barrel." This consisted of planting flowers at Poms Pond in the large barrels next to the parking lot. The week ended with a cookout with Chris and K.C. Costello, Matt Donahue, Jeffery and Robin Hall and Leanne Shaw participating.

West

The week at West had a huge enrollment. Jenn Milne, Maureen Maginnis and Chris Battles were excited to see some familiar faces. Mike Kelly, Kristin and Billy Deluca, Brian and Lisa Tisbert, Rachel Hartman, Sabina Barry and David "Spanky" Charland, a new volunteer, had a week of fun and games, including popsicle stick creations and capture the flag. The week finished with some great tie dye clothes and a playground cookout.

Getting to the pond

Resident stickers will be required for the Poms Pond swimming area off Abbott Street.

The stickers cost $10 and are available in the treasurer's office at town offices.

Families with two or more cars will be charged $2 for each car after the first one. Registrations for each car must be presented to obtain a sticker.

Stickers also can be purchased at the pond gate.

Domino's Pizza

Domino's Pizza has come to Andover and is ready to deliver delicious pizza to you. They guarantee delivery in 30 minutes or you get $3 off the price of your pizza. Located on Park Street in Andover, Domino's also caters to the carry-out trade. In fact, through the month of July, Domino's is featuring a carry-out special - a large pepperoni pizza for only $5.99.

Allan Haffner, owner of the Andover store, stresses that safety is the #1 concern at Domino's. All drivers are checked through the Registry of Motor Vehicles to ensure a safe driving record and must take defensive driving and safe driving courses. Many of the drivers here in Andover have been with Allan for over a year. Pizza is only delivered to the area within a 6½ minute radius of the store. Since it takes one minute to make the pizza and another 10-12 minutes to cook it, that leaves the driver with 16 minutes to complete a 6½ minute drive.

All Domino's pizzas are handmade from fresh dough with only the freshest vegetables and meat and 100% real cheese. Domino's is the largest pizza delivery company in the world with over 5,200 stores in 18 countries. They deliver 500,000 pizzas daily.

The Andover Domino's is a family operation, owned and managed by Allan and his wife

Meredith. They are happy to be a part of the Andover community and have already done some fund-raising with the Shawsheen School PTO. If your school or church organization is interested in some new fund-raising ideas be sure to contact Allan, he'll be glad to help you.

The goal of Domino's is not just to satisfy the customer, but to impress them.

Domino's Pizza is located at 38 Park Street, Andover with parking available. The phone number is 508-474-0066. The hours are Monday through Thursday 4 p.m. - midnight, Friday and Saturday 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. and Sundays from 11 a.m. to midnight.

She has a special talent

By Rick Harrison

There was the slightest trace of a laugh as Holly Grabowski remembered the only time she's had to get physical.

"There was one boy — a real brute — who for some reason believed I thought I was tough," she recalled. "At first he was joking around. I really don't think he would have hit me. But he did take five or 10 swings, so I blocked each punch and then kicked him (in a strategic area). He left me alone after that."

The brute shall remain nameless, but he learned the hard way appearances can indeed be deceiving.

Holly Grabowski is an average 15-year-old girl, perhaps a bit brighter, more energetic and more enthusiastic than most of her peers.

She also possesses a special talent, one you would never guess if you saw this Andover High sophomore with the brownish-blond hair and hazel-green eyes.

Her specialty is karate. She is the youngest female black belt in her school, the American School of Shaolin Kempo Karate in North Andover.

But even more refreshing than her degree of proficiency is the way she approaches her sport.

The honor-roll student speaks with conviction when she says, "School and karate are my life. I want to excel at both."

But Holly would also like those who know her to keep karate in the same perspective she does.

"I don't want people to think it's something weird for me to be doing. My best friends have accepted it. My Mom thinks it's cool. But a lot of people are really surprised when they find out I'm a karate expert. They can't picture me doing it because I don't look the part."

And that's the image Holly wants to project.

"I'm afraid some people will think I'm trying to look and act tough," she said. "In no way am I a tomboy. I dress like a petite person and make it a point to look feminine."

"I don't find many girls or women studying karate, but I don't think the sport should be man-oriented."

In the classroom Holly takes all accelerated courses and pulls down mostly A's. Math is her favorite subject. She's never had a B in that course.

She already talks about majoring in some aspect of math, science, engineering or computers at college.

And she feels the self-discipline inherent in the study of martial arts has helped with her schoolwork.

"Karate has taught me a lot about my mind and body," explained the first-degree black belt. "I have much more self-control now."

Holly's informal introduction to self-defense occurred at age 5, when she attended the Massasoit Judo Club in her former hometown of Danvers.

She was also into swimming and gymnastics then, but eventually came to concentrate all her efforts on karate.

Six years ago, when Holly was 9, the Grabowski family numbered seven and had outgrown their home in Danvers.

It's up, up and away as Holly Grabowski shows her karate moves.

Ralph Grabowski, a marketing consultant who works at home, re-located on Sunset Rock Road where he and his wife, Ann, fixed up a house that came complete with a kid-pleasing indoor pool.

Holly's older sister, Sally, 19, and brother, John, 17, were the first to sign up for karate classes in April of 1987. Younger sisters Juliet, 8, and Rose, 6, also gave it a brief try more recently.

Sally, a Phillips Academy graduate and soon-to-be sophomore at Brandeis University, was unable to fit karate into her schedule and stopped after a couple months.

John became turned on, however, and the incoming M.I.T. freshman has also earned his black belt.

"I'm pretty close to my brother, and when I saw how much he liked it I decided to try," said Holly.

Evan Pantazi, a third-degree black belt and teacher at the North Andover school, made it even more attractive by offering a free lesson.

Holly caught on quickly and in three years progressed through the full range of colored belts: white, yellow, orange, purple, blue, blue with stripe, green, green with stripe, brown, brown with one and two stripes and ultimately the coveted black belt.

At the completion of each step the students receive the belt and a certificate. The zenith is 10th-degree black belt, but there are few such grand masters in the world.

Y camps are coming

Basketball camps for grades 3 through 9 will be held July 23-27 and Aug. 6-10. The program is being run by Debbie Cogan, head coach of women's basketball at Merrimack College, and will consist of conditioning, skill instruction, drills, individual/team play and lots of fun.

A soccer camp for boys and girls ages 7 to 14 is being offered July 16-20. The camp will feature passing, dribbling and shooting drills, game strategy and conditioning activities.

Gymnastics camp for boys and girls ages 6 to 17 will be offered July 9-13, July 30-Aug. 3 and Aug. 13-17. Anita Taylor, coach of the YMCA gymnastics team, will direct the camp. The camp is open to gymnasts of all abilities and will include instruction on un-

180 Main St. North Andover 688-6683

She has a special talent

Holly was awarded her first-degree black on June 23.

She and John are the first two students to go all the way from white to black belt at the North Andover school.

"We did it about as quickly as you can. It's not unusual but it was good time," she noted.

Holly is the youngest female, and the second youngest overall, among the approximately 120 students to reach black belt. Most female students seem to drop out after reaching the blue or green belt stage.

Holly works out two or three times each week, from 1-2½ hours per session, and two weeks is the longest she's gone without karate.

"There have been times when I was tired, and didn't feel like going to class. But if I can just get myself there, I always feel good once I start working out."

For those who have seen Ralph Macchio in the "Karate Kid" movies, Holly has yet to beat up or get beaten up by a band of thugs. She is not yet into contact karate tournaments, either.

What she found unrealistic about the movies was "the short amount of time it took him (Macchio) to reach black belt status, and the small variety of moves he had."

Students advance through the various belt stages by performing certain routines in "forms" and "technique."

When the teacher feels the student is ready he is tested.

In the non-contact forms you fight against imaginary foes, using various punch, choke, wrist grab and blocking moves.

There are dozens of different hand strikes, kicks, knife and club techniques, spins and arm wraps that each student learns.

"Some of them you don't use for months or even years — until you have practiced and perfected them," said Holly.

"I do plan to go into competitive black belt tournaments some time in the future."

As a black belt, Holly is also now qualified to teach. But, she says, "I don't feel ready or mature enough to teach yet. I don't want to mess anyone up when they're just starting out."

Ms. Grabowski sees no end to her involvement with karate.

"I plan to do it all my life. I can't think of life without it. Eventually I'll probably practice on my own, and when I'm married with children I'd like them to try it."

CALL DEWOLFE NEW ENGLAND WE HAVE BUYERS!

She is one of the best teen-age golfers

Wednesday of last week.

Ms. Burgess started hitting golf balls at about age 5, according to her dad. She remembers actually playing at about 8 years old.

"My parents started me off with just a putter and a driver," Ms. Burgess said. "The first time I started really getting serious about golf was the summer before my first year in high school."

That summer she was a runner-up in the New England Junior Open Championship. The following summer she entered the State Junior Championship for the first time.

Ms. Burgess has a 19.2 handicap. Her lowest score for 18 holes is an 81 at Indian Ridge. But that wasn't her best round.

"I think my best round of golf was the time I broke 100 for the first time. I shot an 88," she said.

That was when she was 13 years old.

Ms. Burgess is going into her senior year at Governor Dummer Academy, in Byfield, where she is the only female member of the boys golf team. She plays the fifth spot on a seven-member team.

"We had a good team this year. I think we lost a total of two matches," Ms. Burgess said.

But playing with the boys can be difficult, she said.

"Sometimes they tend to give me a hard time. All in good fun — but it can get to you," she said.

Ms. Burgess wants to continue to play golf after she graduates from Governor Dummer.

"I'd really like to golf in college. I'd also like to play soccer," she said. "My main goal is to go to a college where I can play a sport and if it could be golf, I would really like it."

She is checking out Boston College where her brother, Jordan "J.B." Burgess, is a student and a member of the swim team.

Ms. Burgess plans to play a PGA junior tournament later this summer, which could make her qualify for a national competition in Florida later this year.

In the meantime, she is just about living at Indian Ridge. When she's not golfing, she is lifeguarding at the club pool.

"If I'm not lifeguarding, I'm usually up visiting friends," she said.

New York wins

Ms. Burgess shot a 51 on the front nine and a 45 on the back for a 96 in Wednesday's loss to New York/New Jersey. New York/New Jersey took 23 points against Pennsylvania's 11.5 and Massachusetts' 10.5 in capturing the inter-city match.

Ms. Burgess uses clubs that used to belong to her brother and are a bit long for her. She started choking up on them a little more Wednesday and managed to straighten out her drives as the day went on.

"I figured if I choked down, I'd have more control on them," she said.

Although her long game improved, her chipping and putting were off.

"The short game is giving me a little trouble," Ms. Burgess said.

The inter-city matches have been played annually since 1955 between the Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New York/New Jersey junior teams, according to Pippy O'Connor of Wellesley who is head of women's junior golf for Massachusetts.

"The last time we won it was when we were here (in Massachusetts) three years ago," Ms. O'Connor said.

After being treated like royalty and playing a luxurious club in King-of-Prussia, N.J., last year, Cathy Burgess was anxious to return the courtesy and show off her home club this year, according to Ms. O'Connor. Her parents, who have a family membership at Indian Ridge, liked the idea.

"I went to the advisory board and Mike DeMoulas, who owns the club, and they said yes, they'd be delighted to have it here," Mrs. Burgess said.

All 17 players and their chaperones were put up in the homes of members and on Tuesday night the men's tournament committee bought dinner for the entire group, "without even being asked," Mrs. Burgess said.

Even though the Massachusetts team lost the match, all the girls enjoyed the two days in Andover, according to Ms. O'Connor.

"All three teams are thrilled to be here, no matter whether they win or lose," Ms. O'Connor said.

The other members of the Massachusetts team are from Chestnut Hill, Duxbury, Belmont, and Acton.

Rainbow cantaloupe

1 cantaloupe
3 oz. box raspberry gelatin
Fresh raspberries and mint sprigs for garnish.

Peel a large cantaloupe. Cut out a round circle two inches in diameter at the top of the melon. Scoop out seeds and slice a thin sliver off the bottom of melon to balance it upright (careful not to pierce inside).

Add one cup boiling water to contents of three-ounce box of raspberry gelatin, stir well. Add two-thirds cup ice water and mix well. Fill melon cavity with prepared gelatin and place in refrigerator until set. When packing for picnic, place in a plastic bag with a tie and surround with ice packs or transport in thermal container. Slice in half, then in eights to serve. Garnish with fresh raspberries and mint sprigs.

TV to interview Jean Palmer

WBZ TV Channel 4 was scheduled to interview Jean Palmer Tuesday, about Memorial Hall Library's children's access policy, after the Townsman went to press. Reporter Sarah Ann Shaw was due at Ms. Palmer's 8 Karlton Circle house at 1 p.m.

Also included in the interview was Janine Givens, 14 Marland Road, who just completed fifth grade at South Elementary School. Janine and Jean Palmer's daughter, Lee, put together a petition of 170 signatures of students who want the policy changed. Lee was at camp Tuesday so couldn't be at the interview.

Ms. Palmer said a research person from Channel 4 called her last week and the two talked about the issues.

Ms. Palmer said the TV channel told her Tuesday that the crew would go to the library after interviewing Ms. Palmer.

Recently, the Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union and the state Library Foundation have expressed concern about the Memorial Hall Library policy, which states that children in sixth grade and younger may not appear on the main floor of the library without a parent or without permission from the children's librarian.
